Technology is useless if it's not secure and reliable.

SBAM's vetted expert, NuWave Technology Partners, understands that our members depend on technology to run their business.

They also understand that many of our members hold and process sensitive information that needs protecting.

NuWave is here to help by guiding you to the best solutions for your business.

You didn't go into business to be an expert in information technology. But NuWave certainly did!

Their team of IT experts, based right in the heart of Michigan, is dedicated to giving every customer the best possible experience. NuWave aligns their security and compliance practices to the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST).

Everything they offer is designed to keep your daily operations running smoothly.

Managed Services

Your business runs on technology and you need solutions that just work! Whether you're an enterprise with an in-house IT team or a small business looking for big options, you need technology solutions that won't get in your way. Our number one goal is to provide all of our clients with real-world services that are simple, secure, and reliable.

Who Can Provide Computer Support That Is Simple, Secure & Reliable?

Whether you have an in-house IT department or you're a small business with limited resources, we've got your back. NuWave's proven process starts with understanding your vision to build and manage an IT strategy that supports your organization. This results in solutions that meet your specific needs and are simple, secure, and reliable. We enjoy working with organizations of every type, which is why we offer both co-managed and fully-managed options.

Your Choice: Fully Managed or Co-Managed

Whether you have an in-house IT department or you're a small business with limited resources, they've got your back. NuWave's proven process starts with understanding your vision to build and manage a strategy that supports your organization. They provide simple, secure, and reliable solutions that meet your specific needs.

With NuWave's Proven Process, You Can Kick Unpredictable Expenses To The Curb

After decades of collective experience, NuWave has seen great organizations grossly overspend attempting to solve their IT problems and execs struggling to single-handedly try to manage their own networks.

NuWave offers a proven process that pays careful attention to the six strategic priorities to creating IT peace of mind:

- Planning and budgeting
- Healthy infrastructure
- IT quality
- Risk management
- Security
- Operational effectiveness and efficiency

Cloud-Based Services

Whether it resides in NuWave's Cisco based private environment, or their world class public cloud ecosystem, NuWave Connect is a powerful cloud computing solution that allows you and your team to be productive from anywhere.

It's secure: By letting NuWave help you with a Solution Based Architecture, your applications and your data are securely available to enable your productivity from anywhere with any device with an internet connection. This is real business continuity with real security.

It's scalable: Their Cloud solutions expand and contract with your business, staying as highly flexible as they are highly available. When your future growth arrives, they will always be ready.

It's relevant: NuWave Connect is always up-to-date, so you never have to worry about outgrowing it like you would with those continuously aging technology tools. Likewise, concerns over your technology ever being considered "end of life" or no longer supported are a thing of the past.
