Warner's Template AI Adoption Policy

Everyone's talking about AI. And right now, generative AI is all the rage – enabling users to produce text, images and video in just a few clicks. Businesses are using generative AI tools to make their lives easier. But will it? Or could it complicate everything?

We know AI mistakes come from a lack of human discernment and by users placing too much trust in AI data output, but companies and their employees are moving ahead with using it anyway – even if it puts them at risk.

So how does an organization gain control of companywide AI use and establish proper protocols to avoid costly mistakes? Warner Norcross + Judd LLP can help!

Warner's Emerging Media and Technologies Industry Group is pleased to offer a suite of solutions designed to help minimize your exposure and liability when using AI within your company.

These resources are affordable, user-friendly and available to 2023 SBAM Leadership Council Fall Summit attendees for only $500 (a 50% discount) and you'll receive:
